SHOULDERS

This measurement will require a partner. Measure the space between your shoulder points. Place the tape on "top" of the shoulders. Measure from the edge of the left shoulder across to the prominent neck bone located at the center of the back of the neck continuing to the edge of the right shoulder. You should be measuring across the broadest part of your shoulders. This is the distance from the edge of the left shoulder across to the prominent neck bone located at the center of the back of the neck continuing to the edge of the right shoulder.

BUST

This is a measurement of the fullest part of your bust or body circumference at the bust. Wrap the tape around the fullest part of your bust and center the tape on your back so it's leveled all the way around.

WAIST

This is a measurement of your natural waistline. Use the tape to circle your waist (sort of like a belt would) at your natural waistline, which is located above your belly button and below your rib cage. (If you bend to the side, the crease that forms is your natural waistline.)

HIPS

This is a measurement around fullest part of your buttocks. Wrap tape around the fullest part of your hips, which is usually 7-9" below your natural waistline. Keep tape parallel to floor all the way around. Make sure the tape is over the largest part of your buttocks.

LENGTH

The dress/shirt length measurement is taken from the top of the shoulder, close to the mid side of your neck, following your body down to the point where you want your dress/shirt to end. Think of a line going from your armpit straight upward to your shoulder. Measure between those two points and hold the tape measure straight.

ARMHOLE

In order to take your armhole measurement, you must wrap the measuring tape over the top of your shoulder and around under your armpit.
